

WHEN PARENTS ENGAGE THEIR CHILDREN in cultural teachings and ceremony, when they talk with them about such things as current events or what they are reading, when they take them places and engage in activities with them, when they establish hopes, dreams, and expectations with and for their children,

THEY ARE UNIQUELY,
CONTEXTUALLY, CULTURALLY ENGAGED IN THEIR CHILDREN'S EDUCATION.

